

Middle East J Anesthesiol. 1995 Oct;13(3):335-40.

Is antacid treatment necessary in obstetric anesthesia?

Al Mazrooa AA, Alyafi WA, Marzouki SA.

Department of Anaesthesia, King Abdulaziz University Hospital, Jeddah, Saudi Arabia.

Abstract

All the obstetric units in Jeddah were surveyed regarding the use of antacid prophylaxis and the methods of anesthesia used for emergency and elective cesarian section. The results were compared with the Western practice where marked variation was found but this apparently did not influence mortality from acid aspiration